

September 12, 2025: On How Did They Do That?

Inclinations and agitations.

Every day, people within the spy state are spying on people inside of their lives and intricately studying people's natural inclinations, natural philosophies, and natural habits.

Every day, people within the spy state are scientifically manipulating people to achieve an extension of their inclinations, philosophies, and habits.

The 'radicalization' process is merely a bad set of inclinations being nurtured and grown into a pre-determined outcome.

As I have expressed publicly in the past, the spy state is using a 'base' line of natural agitations to keep a constant series of messages moving into peoples' lives. For some it is through one method, and for others, it is through another method. The spy state is scientifically driving messaging into the minds of their subjects.

Each and every day, the spy state is placing an ongoing series of base-line agitations that are then being enflamed periodically to bring about their pre-determined outcome. Step-by-step, the natural progress of improper inclinations is grown, and nurtured, until the subject is 'primed' and ready for the spy state's mission.

I am alerting law enforcement that a large gang of criminals are being fed information about the interior of my home. This information is being relayed amongst the gang to follow me everywhere that I go and to agitate me in ways that I am describing.

I am attempting to live a peaceful life of religious values, and the spy state is attempting to agitate me to anger - each and every day. I am relating this information publicly so that the entire world can understand what is happening.

I am alerting the world, publicly, that a group of spies are using their access to the powerful tools of the United States government to destroy people within America and around the world. This group of criminals is making it impossible for their targets to live a life that is not influenced by their constant manipulation.

I am no returning to the dishes that I am washing while facing this agitation. As I am describing, the intrusion into our life is so intense that I am unable to wash dishes without feeling the need to describe to you what it is that they are doing to us in the world. The spies are driving threatening, intimidating, and punishing messages into our home at all times.

I am now returning to my daily chores to keep moving forward in the right direction.
